

Senator Dan Weber

Senate District 40

Senator Dan Weber was first elected to the Georgia state senate from the 40th district in 2004. Senator Weber proudly represents Brookhaven, Chamblee, Doraville, Embury Hills, Dunwoody, Tucker and Peachtree Corners. He is the chairman of the Education and Youth Committee, secretary of the State and Local Governmental Operations Committee, and a member of the Natural Resources and the Environment, Special Judiciary and Urban Affairs committees.

Senator Weber was born in 1956 in St. Mary's, Ohio. After attending high school in a small town in central Ohio, he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in engineering from the University of Toledo in 1979. While an undergraduate student, Senator Weber was inducted into several academic and leadership honor societies. In addition to playing collegiate basketball for two years, Senator Weber was heavily involved in student government, serving as the student government president of the engineering college. The Ohio Society of Professional Engineers recognized his achievements by naming him the "Outstanding Engineering Student in Ohio" for 1978. Senator Weber obtained his law degree from the University of Houston Law Center where he was research editor for the Law Review and graduated near the top of his class.

Senator Weber and his wife, Kay, married in 1990. Kay is an educator who worked as a classroom teacher and administrator for the DeKalb county schools and is currently a mathematics instructor at Dunwoody Elementary School. The Weber's enjoy a busy family life raising their two children.

Senator Weber is in private law practice in Dunwoody. His work focuses primarily on the resolution of disputes within the construction industry at the local, state and federal level. Prior to establishing his own practice, Senator Weber worked at the law firms of Powell, Goldstein, Frazer & Murphy as a commercial litigation associate, Smith & Fleming as a government contract and construction dispute mediator, and Anderson-Dailey as a construction litigator. He also serves as an arbitrator and mediator for the American Arbitration Association.
